

SURE PEACE TREATY WILL BE APPROVED

Estimates on Margin Differ,
but Even Foes Concede It
Will Be Ratified.

VOTE IS DUE TO-MORROW

Speculation Rife Regarding Appointment by Sprout to Fill Knox's Seat.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York, Oct. 16. (Herald Bureau.)

Interest in connection with the impending vote on the German treaty centered here to-night on a report that Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania might come to Washington before appointing a successor to Senator Knox. While the Administration is confident there are enough votes to ratify the treaty it is acknowledged the margin is close and the appointment of Senator Knox's successor would make assurance doubly sure.

The debate on the treaty will proceed to-morrow and each Senator will be limited to one hour of discussion. It is expected a vote will be reached by Tuesday, which gives added point against delay in naming the new Pennsylvania Senator.

Information reaching here from Harrisburg is that Gov. Sprout recognizes the importance of making an appointment promptly, but it is also recognized he has said he would consult freely with leaders and would not act for a few days. It also was reported that Gov. Sprout would leave to-morrow on a road inspection tour and that the trip might take him to Washington.

The Pennsylvania Governor has consulted with Senator Penrose and with Senator Lodge. The latter urged upon him the importance of acting promptly if the situation warranted.

Despite this it appears that Gov. Sprout is taking his time. Two names continue to be mentioned as Senator Knox's successor. One is William E. Crow, head of the Republican State committee. The other is Judge James H. Reed of Pittsburgh, who was Senator Knox's law partner.

Gov. Sprout has set at rest rumors he might resign and allow the Lieutenant-Governor to name him to succeed Senator Knox.

While the indications point to the probability of delay on the part of Gov. Sprout, Republican Senators still hope he may act to-morrow, which would enable Senator Knox's successor to participate in the final vote on ratification.

In the debate Senator Hitchcock of the Foreign Relations Committee will speak in favor of ratification. Senator Underwood, Democratic leader, is expected to take the same position. Their view is that while they may not approve the treaty with Germany, it is now a question of whether peace is to be attained at all. The Democratic attitude on the German treaty is not a party one and each Senator will be left to vote as he sees fit. Among the Republicans it is believed there are only three who will refuse to vote for ratification. They are Senators Borah (Idaho), La Follette (Wis.) and Norris (Neb.).

Among Democrats it is believed only a small majority of them will vote against ratification. The "insurgent" Republicans say there are at least twenty-three Democratic votes in sight against the compact.

BOOTLEGGING BY AIRPLANE TO SUPPLEMENT SPEED BOAT

Ordinary Machine Can Carry Twenty Cases, Officials
Have Been Told—Now Flying Across Canadian Border, Says Report.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York, Oct. 16. (Herald Bureau.)

Bootleggers and liquor smugglers intent on getting liquor into the United States are experimenting with the airplane as a vehicle of transportation to supplement the automobile and the speed boat, according to reports received by several Government agencies responsible for enforcement of the Volstead law.

An ordinary airplane or flying boat with a little remodeling of the hull and cockpit can be made to carry from 200 to 500 pounds, which means more than twenty cases of liquor on a trip, the officials have been told. Flying boats are bringing stores of liquor to the Florida coast from Cuba. On the northern border airplanes are skimming across into the United States from Canada transporting big cargoes. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and other Federal officials put little credence in these reports of the flying bootleggers coming across the northern border. They argue that an airplane is enough of a novelty still in districts along the Canadian border to arouse the curiosity of inhabitants. For a plane to land in a field in Vermont, northern New York or Michigan would mean discovery by farmers and others who would be attracted to it, the officials said. Some persons would be sufficiently law abiding, in Mr. Haynes's opinion, to notify the nearest Federal authorities, with the result that the aerial anti-Volsteadian would be committed to jail.

Although Federal officials say airplanes cannot safely be used by liquor smugglers, the Government soon may organize an air force to patrol the borders against smugglers. The nucleus of such a force is in possession of the Coast Guard service, which is responsible for protecting the Florida coast against booze smuggling.

More than a year ago the Coast Guard service established a flying station at Moorehead, N. C., and began to train pilots and ground men. Each day for more than a year the Coast Guard planes searched the coast line for the maritime bootlegger. Inlets where small boats might land contraband cargoes of liquor were explored from the Coast Guard planes.

The Moorehead station of the Coast Guard is now closed. Economy did it, officials explain. It cost about $5,000 a month to operate and the word was passed to the Coast Guard service in June to reduce expenses.

"Temporary" is marked in the margin of the Coast Guard service records which tell of the closing of the station. Soon the guards hope to reopen the station and expand it. Planes can be obtained from the Navy Department in abundance. Pilots are easily enlisted, officials explain, because of the large number of men who learned to fly during the war, but did not get enough flying to satisfy them. The three planes which the Moorehead station was equipped are there ready to be turned up when appropriations are expended.

Mr. Dimars admits that the life led by "Red" is not completely one of captivity. He accompanied the Dimarses on every automobile trip they made in the summer, and started the steady inhabitants of quiet New England towns both by his extreme redness and the range of his voice, which is as startling as the sound of a deep and resonant bass would be if it came rumbling from the throat of a canary. The "red howler" has a sound box in his throat which swells to a much larger size as he gives his cry.

Mr. Dimars said the unusual record of the zoo has been making in the last year in the acquisition of fresh specimens which he showed up another note a few days ago by the receipt of a one-eyed bull. Miss Hazel Clark of Lehigh, Pa., found him near her home and presented him to the zoo. His eyes are not quite centered in his forehead, but there is no depression or trace in the spot where another eye might be.

Also, to add to the zoo's collection of albinos, Mr. Dimars found on a trip to the Berkshires a small albino chestnut tree growing out of a rocky ledge. It formed part of a larger tree of the same kind, but has its own roots. Its leaves are as white as paper. It will be planted in Bronx Park.

"BONEHEADS" TO BE TESTED.

Osteopaths Will Show Adjustments of Skull at Convention.

Scientific effort will be made at the annual convention of the New York Osteopathic Society at Syracuse, October 21 and 22, to discover if there is any basis for the phrase "boneheaded."

By dissecting a human brain the osteopaths will try to demonstrate how adjustment of the spine and skull may be made to relieve irritation of nerve fibers leading from the brain to all parts of the body.

Another subject to be discussed is "Colds, How to Catch Them and How to Cure Them." Deaf mutes, formerly pronounced incurable, but that have been taught to speak, will be exhibited. X-ray plates will be shown to prove that the origin of most diseases is in the spine.

HELD ON OLD MURDER CHARGE.

BUFFALO, Oct. 16.—After an eighteen year search, Giuseppe de Palma, said to be wanted in New York on a charge of murder, was arrested here to-night. Detectives picked up the man from a description which has been on file for years, they said.

De Palma confessed committing a murder in New York city in 1902, the police said after questioning him. They said he could not tell the name of the victim.

THE FACT THAT her home in Mamaroneck, N. Y., $25,000 left to her and $50,000 left to each of her three children are involved in the will contest failed to shake Miss Barrymore's policy of silence.

The break between Miss Barrymore and her husband, elder of the Colt sons, is stated to be one of the chief causes for the drawing of the will in a manner which the sons now resent. From the time of their first meeting it is said, Col. Colt greatly admired the young actress. Into the home at Mamaroneck she had put her love and her artistry. The taking of it from her was a painful blow.

THE warning, "Get out or you die!" signed "Ku Klux Klan," chalked on a shanty in the rear of 4133 Park avenue, where Mrs. Gertrude Nickens, a negro, 40, was found apparently murdered yesterday, caused an unusually searching investigation.

Mrs. Nickens's body was found with hands tied behind her back. The rooms were in great disorder. Insurance policies aggregating several thousand dollars were found in the apartment. Mrs. Nickens had separated from her husband, who lives in Plainfield, N. J.

Among Democrats it is believed only a small majority of them will vote against ratification. The "insurgent" Republicans say there are at least twenty-three Democratic votes in sight against the compact.

RED MONKEY ROARS LUSTILY AS CAPTIVE

ZOO GETS ALBINO TREE

Chestnut With White Leaves,
Found in Berkshires, to Be Planted Here.

"Red," the little monkey who roars like a lion and who makes his home audibly at the Scarsdale residence of Raymond L. Dimars, curator at the New York Zoological Park, in The Bronx, soon will celebrate a full year in captivity. On the face of it that does not appear remarkable, but if "Red" is alive a month from now it will be the first time that a "red howler," as this type of monkey from British Guiana is known, has survived removal from his habitat.

The great London Zoo tried for forty years to accomplish the contented captivity of these monkeys. In that period it acquired no less than fifty specimens, all of which died before they had spent as much as three months behind bars.

Mr. Dimars admits that the life led by "Red" is not completely one of captivity. He accompanied the Dimarses on every automobile trip they made in the summer, and started the steady inhabitants of quiet New England towns both by his extreme redness and the range of his voice, which is as startling as the sound of a deep and resonant bass would be if it came rumbling from the throat of a canary. REGISTRATION IS LESS THAN 1920'S

Is thought, by heavy additions to the population. The other seven Bronx districts fell off from $600 to $500, Socialist and Democratic alike. There are no sure Republican districts in The Bronx. In Manhattan the losses in Republican districts ran like this: Ninth, 4,060; Tenth, 4,515; Eleventh, 2,748; Twelfth, 3,674; Thirteenth, 3,951; Fourteenth, 3,951; Fifteenth, 4,014; Sixteenth, 3,248; Seventeenth, 4,703. The losses in Democratic districts were much less, far below the normal loss in most cases: First, 680; second, 294; Third, 3,720; Fifth, 1,921; Eighth, 895; Twelfth, 3,405; Twenty-first, 2,781; Twenty-second, 3,557.

The Democratic districts in the same borough fell off as follows: Third, 70; Seventh, 1,685; Eighth, 750; Thirteenth, 429; Fourteenth, 556; Fifteenth, 888. The Twenty-third district is a Socialist stronghold and the other districts are classed as doubtful.

The loss in the so-called Republican districts in Manhattan was 25,430, as compared with a loss of 12,151 in the so-called Democratic strongholds. In Brooklyn the loss in practically sure Republican districts was 56,250, as compared with 4,424 in the sure Democratic districts. No Brooklyn district showed a gain.

"We are pretty well satisfied that the men and women of New York city knew pretty well what they were doing when they registered in the splendid numbers recorded to-day," said Arthur B. Murkin, chairman of the Curran campaign executive committee. "Also we are not foolish enough to try to tell them how they are going to vote. I guess they will figure that out for themselves."

Frederick A. Wallis, chairman of the Hyman campaign committee, said:

"The most striking feature of the week's registration was the interest displayed by the women. Last year it was no secret that many women were loath to register. This was particularly true in sections where there are many poor families. In those the women were more concerned with their household duties than with voting. This year, with the five cent fare, lower rents, lower gas and electric light rates, lower telephone bills as the big issues, the situation was strikingly different. In the homes where economy is a necessity the women displayed as much interest in registering as did the men."

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO WIN VIRGINIA

State Platform Attracts the Serious Thought of Many Democrats.

WOMEN ACTIVE IN FIGHT

Editorial in 'The New York Herald' Read There With Deep Interest.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 16.—The editorial in THE NEW YORK HERALD, "Republicanism in Virginia," has been read with deep interest in this State. It tells accurately of a situation which is confronting the Republicans and many of the conservative Democrats in the Old Dominion. Although Cox, Democratic candidate for President, carried the State last fall by 54,312, the Republicans and their friends are greatly heartened by the activities in the effort to elect their State ticket, which is as follows: For Governor, Henry W. Anderson of Richmond; Lieutenant-Governor, John H. Hassinger of Washington county; Attorney-General, Harry K. Wolcott of Norfolk; State Treasurer, J. W. Flanagan of Radford; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis Okey of Lynchburg; Secretary of Commonwealth, T. N. Parsons of Grayson county; Corporation Commissioner, Gilbert Twigg of Staunton county; Commissioner of Agriculture, Jacob S. Haldean of Frederick county.

The Republicans have put forth a platform which is appealing to the voters in solid numbers and is also attracting the serious thought of many Democrats. The platform points out that there has been an unbroken control by the Democratic party of all branches of the State and local governments for over thirty years; that this control has tended to destroy the influence of Virginia in national affairs, impair the qualities of citizenship and to bring about a condition of stagnation in the intellectual, political and economic life of the State; that it furnishes painful evidence of the evil effect of long continued one party control in any community; that there should be two vigorous and representative parties, divided on lines of political and economic thought, promoting free discussion and giving to the people effective agencies through which changes of policy may be accomplished and betrayals of public trust punished.

A notable plank in the platform is that on race agitation, which says: "We condemn without qualification all persons of any race who in reckless disregard of the public peace seek to arouse race antagonism and appeal to race prejudice. Any suggestion that the colored people of Virginia, constituting less than one-third of its population, can control our State and local governments, or that they desire to do so, is a patent absurdity and a slander upon the intelligence of both races. Under these conditions any person, white or colored, who seeks to arouse race prejudice and antagonism is sowing the seeds of those disorders which bring shame upon this nation, and is an enemy of the State."

Physicians Say Klan Wizard Has Recovered From Collapse.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—William J. Simmons, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, will be able to resume his defence of the organization before the House Rules Committee to-morrow, his physicians announced tonight. They reported that he was recovering satisfactorily from an attack of throat trouble and exhaustion.

Members of the committee indicated that if Mr. Simmons's health permitted him to resume the stand the next session would be given to cross-examination designed to bring out details of the organization and operations of the Klan.

Federal Highway Bill Carries Big Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Federal highway bill as agreed on in conference carries appropriations which will make possible the employment of from 300,000 to 350,000 for six months, according to an announcement to-day by the Department of Agriculture.

"It is a fortunate condition," the statement added, "that the States with the largest allotments and which can proceed at once with road construction are the States where unemployment conditions probably are the worst."

SELLING AT COST

There's a way to end the unemployment problem overnight. Let every merchant forget profit for a month and bring his prices so low that people must buy.

Philanthropy? No. Just good business. Buying a-plenty means jobs a-plenty—and prosperity a-plenty for everybody.

We're taking our own prescription. Right now, at our manufacturing plant, we're retailing suits and overcoats, when ordered together, at actual maker's cost.

In addition to lopping off all profit during this sale, we're giving you the benefit of the big saving effected by making your suit and overcoat together from the same measures—at the same time.

There's a very substantial saving on these double transactions—in the selling and the making—and you get it all—with our profit, too.

Our dividend will come when times are normal again—in your permanent good-will. So our present sacrifice is sound business, after all.
